

Sermon title: Waters of Restoration

Sermon text: Psalm 23:2-3

This was a pretty simple message. Jesus, our Good Shepherd, leads us by still waters. He restores our soul.

I (Dan) am only providing 3 questions this week. I know it's not many, but I'm praying your group goes deep rather than wide this week. Dig into the questions. Be vulnerable with each other. And pray together.

So here are the questions:

- 1) What phrase, illustration, or point stuck out to you from the message?
- 2) Is it hard to sit in quiet, next to (either real or metaphorical) still waters? Why or why not?
- 3) Jesus restores us from sin/distraction, stress/weariness, and sadness/sorrow. Which of those most resonates with you right now? What are you struggling with right now?
